DEMOCRATS UP IN AIR OVER DOUBLE PLATFORM FRACAS

CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE public utilities and gas transmission lines when caccasive rates are charked, was cutirely climinated. In lleu of the latter the platform "favers" laws requiring corporations to pay taxes on the same valuation as that upon which rates are based, probably knowing that such laws would be unconstitutional under the decision of our highest courts, and in this manner the whole rate prossition who leavest up with a position who cleaned up with a chuckle by the gentlemen who always know what they are about and are always about. The league leaders are under no delusion now as to what was done to them by the machine. But they are markets their what was done to them by the machine. But they are pinning their fairs to the, "irrevocable" stand taken by Walton before the convention, in which he amounced that mobody can change the Shawnee platform from which he made his campaign, except the ones who grafted the original Since that would be the convention of the convention of the convention, in which he made his campaign, except the ones who grafted the original Since that would will for another learner convention of the call for another league convention.

and since the league has shown no disposition so far to order such a contention, the flowest friends of Walton that Walton is still running on the Shawnee platform and that he will not be tied up at the Semanse of November 7. That, at several headquarters, including the league the should be should least, is the opinion of the league.

Committee New in Charge,
It may be true, as some profess to believe, that Walton does not object to various organizations, such as the democratic party, meeting in donvention and indorsing his caudidoy, nor to the adoption by them doy, nor to the adoption by them of sundry resolutions. But it appears not to have been essential. After having made a campaign upon a specific program, which was attackspecific program, which was attach-ed by his apponents and defended the having won the nomination by an unpre-edenied plurality, he thought the matter was settled, and has been gince August 1. The only thing that could give the lesger doubt upon this point would be for Walton to submit to turning his campaign over to the democratic state ma-edine.

There is serious division of opinion as to just how the Waston campaign is to be conducted.
